Alitalia to increase flights to MEX; daily service to begin on 3 July

Rome, 15 February, 2017 – Alitalia announced four additional weekly flights on the popular Rome-Mexico City route, with a new daily service starting on 3 July, 2017. Daily flights will continue throughout the summer, more than doubling the connectivity and the number of seats available between the two countries. A total of 3900 seats per week are now available for purchase during the summer.

Our new flights will further improve economic and cultural ties, as well as tourism flows between Italy and Mexico.

On board, passengers can enjoy fully-refurbished cabin interiors and a new connectivity service allowing them to make phone calls, send emails and use the Internet. This service is available on several of the aircraft in the airline's Boeing B777 fleet.
